

Responding to Trauma

JOURNEYING WITH ART THERAPY TO BUILD SPACES OF JUSTICE AND DIGNITY

APRIL 27, 2017
BWSS OFFICE
4:30 TO 8:30 PM

CONTACT
endingviolence@bwss.org

ART SUPPLIES WILL BE PROVIDED

SLIDE SCALE FROM
$40 to $80

This workshop is for women counsellors, therapist, and front line workers

- An introduction of a graphic creative process into the trauma informed work

Through this workshop participants will:

- Experience the benefits of including graphic art into the trauma informed work.
- Explore art as a mean to create safe spaces to work with experiences of trauma that are difficult to put into words.
- Experience the artistic process as a vehicle to create new meanings and possibilities to respond to the effects of trauma

JACQUELINE SIGG is gender, social justice and human rights informed psychotherapist. She has a strong commitment to co-explore means to enrich stories of dignity and justice with women who suffer gender and obstetric violence.

She coordinates academic and institutional programs in Mexico, including the creation, planning and execution of them. She has delivered teaching and training both in bachelor as postgraduate programs in art and narrative therapy in Mexico, Spain and the United States.